New Addition to Mt. Hermon Gymnasium

Million-Dollar Addition to the Mt. Hermon Gym

One of Mount Hermon School's most pressing needs will be met with the construction of an extensive addition to James Memorial Gymnasium, which is scheduled to start soon and to be completed in September 1957. Although this addition was originally a Development Fund project and some funds have been contributed for it, the greater share of the expense will be met from school funds. The trustees, confident of the continued generous support of alumni and other friends, have decided to proceed with this much-needed addition.

The new gymnasium area will extend from the north wall of the present building. The main floor, 172 by 100 feet in area, is 12 feet longer and twice as wide as the school's central dining room in West Hall. This space allows for three basketball courts, one 90 by 50 feet, the other two, 84 by 48 feet. A folding wall will make it possible for two games to be played at one time, and pull out bleachers will seat 1053 people. The floor will also be available for badminton, volleyball, and track work. The entering lobby for spectators will be equipped with a ladies' powder room and a room assigned to the school's Outing Club. On the lower floor will be 593 lockers, enough to take care of all students and coaches, and enough showers to carry the heaviest load. There will also be coaches' dressing rooms, a training room, a large equipment room, and the Director's office. The natatorium will include a pool 75 by 40 feet with plenty of deck space to handle large squads. This will allow 6 lanes for competition and 10 to 11 lanes for practice. There will be a gallery for 350 spectators and a window below the surface for coaching.

The old gymnasium will be used to good advantage. The main floor will be devoted to body mechanics and gym apparatus. The pool will become an indoor rifle range, and other rooms will provide much-needed facilities for visiting team dressing rooms, and dressing rooms for game officials. The construction is estimated to cost about $1,000,000.

Warwick Votes Two New Vehicles; No New Fire Truck

The special town meeting held in Warwick Monday night rejected the request for a new fire truck but did approve purchase of two new highway department trucks. Road Supt. Lee J. Dresser, Sr., G. Stanley Anderson and Glenn Matthews were made a committee of three authorized to investigate and purchase two new trucks, trading in two town-owned Chevrolet. The committee was authorized to borrow money for the balance after trade-ins and to repay the amount from the highway earnings account.

Purchase of a new fire truck, estimated to cost about $8,700, was defeated by a vote of 26 to 18. Officials pointed out that the present fire truck is in poor condition and that the town faces costly repairs on it if a new one is not purchased. It was also reported that ownership of a new truck might result in lower fire insurance rates.

A request to donate the old schoolhouse woodshed to the Boys Club was rejected. It was felt on the part of some that the town might be able to provide better quarters for the boys as the woodshed is badly in need of repair.

The town forestry committee reported its efforts to determine the town forest boundaries as distinguished from those of the state. The committee reported some success and some failure to establish bounds. It noted a request from Oscar Ohlson to provide the town copies of maps he has made over a period of years.

For unforeseen expenses, the town meeting appropriated $150 for burials and $250 for the contingency fund. Approval was voted for a transfer of $4000 from the road machinery fund to the road machinery account.

The meeting met at 8 p.m. and lasted about 2½ hours. About 45 persons attended.

Work Parties Are Proving Popular

The second in a series of work parties at the Unitarian Church was held Saturday from 1 to 6 p.m. Volunteers of all ages are welcome to the work series even if they can stay only for an hour. Pails, rubber gloves, and stepladders are the tools needed by the volunteers.

Welfare Costs Go Up for October

Welfare expenditures for Northfield rose $91 above the year's average after a September showing of $27 below average. October payments totalled $5,541, compared with a September figure of $5,180. The caseload remained unchanged at 62. A decrease of one each in disability assistance and general relief was balanced by an increase of two old age assistance cases. Aid to dependent children case total was unchanged.

Expenditures for October cases were as follows: OAA, $4,802, 55 cases; ADC, $390, 3 cases; DA, $272, 2 cases; GR, $76, 2 cases.

Expenditures for September were as follows: OAA, $4,354, 55 cases; ADC, $380, 3 cases; DA, $275, 2 cases; GR, $169, 2 cases.

'Talent Dollars' Are Collected At Fellowship

A talent dollar supper and program was held last Friday at the Advent Christian Church Fellowship Rooms in South Vernon. About 60 persons attended the affair and $622 talent dollars were collected.

Master of Ceremonies was Warren Brown. Music Director Courtland Dunklee led the group in singing and Jimmy Moore followed with a piano solo. Next, an orchestral selection by Laura Kendall, Martha Ann Dunklee, Judith Parsons, Jonathan Fowler and Alfred Young was accompanied on the piano by Linda Goodwin.

Linda Goodwin also played a piano solo, and a chorus of primary children sang. They were: Linda White, Carolyn Stange, Linda Parsons, James and Everett Moore, Jr., and Stephen Dunklee. Jonathan Fowler played a piano solo.

Harrison Stacy and Harold Parsons counted the talent dollar money which came to $622 including a gift of $200 from the Gordon Buffum family. The Buffums left this sum with the church treasurer when they moved to Florida.

The supper was served by Mrs. Gertrude Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brasseur, Mrs. Everett Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Kendall. Laura Kendall, Martha Ann Dunklee, Joy Moore, Linda Goodwin and Judith Parsons served as waitresses as well as taking part in the program.

High School News Notes

By Nancy Oakman

Official word last weekend from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association states that Northfield High School has for the second consecutive year won a first place rating on its yearbook, "The Review." The yearbook for the class of 1956 did not receive so high a rating as that of the previous year but was sufficiently high to receive this distinguished rating. Northfield is the only high school in the area to have placed so high and it is sincerely proud of the last year's yearbook staff and Miss Dearnstine who worked so many long hours on its planning and layout.

The present yearbook staff is already well underway in planning for the 1957 issue of "The Review" which will be available before graduation day.

The entire student body and faculty were justly proud of the fine showing Martha Parsons made a week ago in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest held at Greenfield Junior High School. Martha received a second place prize for her essay—a $25 Savings Bond.

The students of Grades 9-12 were able to hear the speeches of the six contestants at an assembly Monday afternoon. Mr. Leonard made a tape recording of the program as delivered over Radio Station WHAI so students might hear the representatives of the six schools, and how well the Northfield representative, Martha Parsons, did in the contest. The recording was made on the new tape recorder just received which was paid for by funds contributed by the teachers and the student council. This recorder will be used in many important ways during the coming year. Among other uses will be for training students who have the privilege of broadcasting the news each week. The broadcast will be recorded the night before and then played back so that students may hear the various ways in which they may improve their delivery. In similar ways, the recorder will be used in English, literature and social studies classes, and can be used for recording special radio or television broadcasts. This is an excellent contribution to the audio and visual aids equipment in the school.

Another new student entered school Wednesday as an eighth grader. Peter Popkiewicz came from Orange, and is living in South Vernon. This brings the enrollment to 170.

Deficiency slips were distributed Wednesday afternoon to those students who were not doing satisfactory work in the second marking period. These warning slips are usually received with reluctance by the student but have proven effective in stimulating students to study so that when report cards are distributed there are fewer non-passing marks.

A school assembly was held Wednesday afternoon during the eighth period for the upper classes. Mrs. Harry Gortner from Greenfield spoke to the assembly on "the opportunities available in the commercial field."

Mrs. Gortner is a representative of Fisher Junior College in Boston. She told of the variety of secretarial and related jobs available in the field of commercial work and answered many questions that were asked of her by the students.

Rehearsals are being held each afternoon or evening in the town hall for the annual class play, "Going on Seventeen," which will be presented Saturday, Dec. 15.

Education Week Is Observed Locally

The Center School was visited by more than 137 adults during American Education Week. The total enrollment for the six grades is 280 children from 182 families. An open house was held following the PTA supper and meeting Nov. 19 and about 150 persons were conducted through the eight classrooms at the school. Parents viewed displays including the vision testing equipment which the school nurse, Mrs. Marian Billings, has been using to test pupils' eyes.

GREENFIELD SOUTH DEERFIELD TURNERS FALLS

Through a Kitchen Window

The first snowfall—a soft fresh covering. Sunday the world was dressed in purest white. The very face of things had changed overnight. Gone were the colors, the forms and textures of fall. Everything seemed wrapped in the magic of snow. Silently the snowflakes fell frosting every branch and twig with inches of fluff.

The apple trees in the orchard beyond the fence, the elms, oaks, wild cherries, and the leafless shrubs were all decorated with sprays of white icing. The pointed cedars stood erect with snow-capes over their shoulders. The sprawling junipers beside the rock outcropping became snow covered mounds, difficult to differentiate, so thick and even was the coating of white. Pockets of snow on the yews at the house foundation gave solidity to the lace edged sprays of deep green. The rose bush tangle was crisscrossed with green and white, the arching stems meshing with each other in an interesting manner. Rabbit started a nest beneath this very patch last spring.

A strange stillness filled the air as the snow came down in silence. There was a feeling of largeness about. It was hard to tell where snow left off and sky began. There was not the slightest movement. No living thing was yet abroad. No birds, no squirrel about. No rabbit tracks to mar the sea of white.

Boughs of the Servian spruce to the north of the house were topped with the tufted weight of fleecy white. Near the rail fence the clusters of red pine wore patches of angora on their outstretched arms. The yellow fringed witch hazel bending in graceful white over the rock seemed to close communication with the wild rose nestled there.

Evonymus alata with curiously winged stems beside the doorstep was so beautiful this fall I thought it could never look lovelier. But its branches, white encrusted, now devoid of their crimson foliage hung with brightly colored fruits as an invitation to the birds. The shagbark hickory earlier scattered its leaves broadside when it no longer needed them. Pillows of snow collected on its discarded leaves that lodged among the leafless branches of the Hypericum close by, forming a delightful picture unexpectedly artistic.

The snow had stopped falling and everywhere we looked was a sight of interest and beauty. The roof of the bird feeder was snow capped, a windrow on the threshold obstructing the entrance but with the warming sun we knew it wouldn't stay that way for long. And our bird friends would come eventually—the chickadees, nuthatches and downy woodpeckers, to share this day.

The gentleness of the soft new snow touched everything. The little nests on the ends of the wild carrot stems were heaped with down that would brush off at the touch uncovering the homely weed it is. How pretty they are in their disguise! Yarrow, goldenrod and asters are camouflaged too but only for a time. A deserted vireo's nest, its cup filled to the brim with snow, hangs across the path in the ash tree. Why hadn't we noticed it before? It made us wonder what happened to the little brood raised in this semi-penile nest, and where they are now that winter has set in.

The full charm of the bare and leafless patch of woods is felt as we look at the interesting tree forms, their empty hands covered now with snow. How different each is even as we view them at a distance. The whiteness of the snowy ground points up the subtle characters of each one and some of the trunks painted with mosses and lichens, unnoticed before, can be enjoyed unreservedly now.

Not for long did we live in this fairy-like world with everything seemingly at a standstill. There came a change in mood and a change of air currents. A slight breeze stirred causing a shift in the delicately balanced loads, sifting snow from twigs and branches exposing dark accents here and there. The sun rose a little higher in the heavens. Little by little bits of white icing jarred from the branches and twigs to pockmark the white blanket beneath. The birds began to come to the feeding stations and a saucy bluejay with a flash of color flew across my line of vision.

This picture of loveliness all about us is a miracle. Snow in its perfection is most beautiful and wonder evoking. "Nature is full of genius, full of divinity." I marked this day on the calendar. The day of the first snowfall, November 18th.

John Callaghan Is Well Remembered For His Anecdotes

On Wednesday morning, November 28, John Thomas Callaghan, of East St., Northfield, died at his home. He was born September 25, 1874 and was the oldest all-time resident of Northfield. His father and mother were James and Margaret (O'Keefe) Callaghan. On November 20, 1907, just forty-nine years ago he was married to Flora Dennell in St. Johns Church in Millers Falls. Among the offices he has held were Selectman and Town Road Commissioner at two different times. He was organizer of one of the town's earliest baseball teams. As the oldest villager who has never lived outside of Northfield, Mr. Callaghan had many historic and amusing unpublished anecdotes about the founder and the founding of The Northfield Schools, as well as about the town itself.

Surviving are his widow; his son, James I. Callaghan of Northfield and six daughters and fifteen grandchildren. The daughters are Mrs. Mary Lamoureux of Greenfield; Mrs. Ellen McDonough of West Medway, Mass.; Mrs. Flora Abbey of Northfield; Miss Frances Callaghan of Boston; Mrs. Jane Johnson of San Diego, Cal.; Mrs. Margaret Calder of Washington, D. C. Two surviving sisters are the Misses Mary and Katharine Callaghan of Northfield.

High Mass of Requiem will be said at 9 a.m. Friday at St. Patrick's Church.

Burial will be at St. Marys Cemetery here. The Rosary was recited at his home on East St. Thursday evening. Kidders Funeral Home had the arrangements.

Efficiency Is Needed on Farms

"In Massachusetts . . . only those individual farmers who are rapidly increasing their efficiency and cutting costs per unit of output will be as well off this year as last."

George W. Westcott, Extension economist, University of Massachusetts, made the above statement in discussing the farm situation on the New England Farm Hour recently.

Westcott added that farm prices average about the same as last year with milk prices higher, poultry and egg prices lower, vegetable prices about the same, and apple prices higher but with only half a crop. However, farm costs have risen more in Massachusetts than they have nationally so that total net farm income here will be lower this year.

Heated Discussion In Gill Meeting

Selectmen in Gill voted two to one against transfer of a package store license from Duda Packing Co. on Mountain Road to Duda Fine Foods on French King Highway, Chairman Walter Vassar announced Wednesday. Duda will receive a letter setting forth reasons for the action from the selectmen.

The transfer request was opposed at a hearing last week by Henry Riel who operates a package store across the road from the proposed new location. Duda Brothers planned to operate the package store in one corner of a new supermarket which they are now building near French King Highway. Duda may now apply for renewal of the license at the Packing Co. on Mountain Road or allow it to expire on Dec. 31. In the event of expiration the permit might be granted to another firm.

About 40 persons attended a hearing Tuesday night, Nov. 20. Principal arguments were made by lawyers representing the opposing parties. Duda Bros. were represented at the hearing by Atty. John Dolan of Turners Falls. Atty. Raymond M. Trudal of Montague Center represented Henry Riel.

Dolan pointed out at the hearing that the new $75,000 store will mean much to the town and that $13,000 per week must be grossed to meet the overhead of maintaining the new establishment.

Trudel argued that it was not in the best interests of the town for the two package stores to be placed so close together and that when Riel first applied for his license in 1949 he was led to believe that of the two licenses available, one would be in the southern part of town and one in the central part.

Experiences in Africa Related at Meeting

Miss Ruth Truesdell of Moores Corner was guest speaker at a missionary meeting held Tuesday, Nov. 20 at the Vernon Home. Miss Hazel Merrifield, president of the local Mission Society, introduced Miss Truesdell. Miss Truesdell's message was "Revive Us Again." She sang the hymn in an African dialect and spoke of many experiences she had in Africa. She read parts of letters she has received from other missionaries since her return home.

At the meeting, Mrs. Christine Quimby led devotions and later noted that three missionary mothers were present: Mrs. Arthur Truesdell of Moores Corner, Mrs. Fred Flewellen, whose son and family are in Japan, and Mrs. Jennie Blossom, whose daughter and husband are in India.

Closing prayers were by Rev. Isabelle Kennison, Miss Truesdell and Mrs. Quimby. Refreshments were served by Miss Merrifield, Mrs. Flewellen and Mrs. Anna Blackstone.

The Unitarian Church is sponsoring the motion picture film, "Martin Luther" which will be shown at the town hall Sunday night. There will be a free-will offering for the Sunday School.

Before the deer hunting season in Vermont ended Sunday the following area hunters managed to get their share of venison.

Raymond Deane of Bernardston, a 125 pound, three pointer in Vernon.

Lucius Stark of Bernardston, a 65 pound spikehorn in Vernon.

A 1957 FORD CAR offering the advantages of both the hardtop and the convertible represents the first revolutionary new idea in automotive design since the development of the closed car 40 years ago. To change the hardtop into a convertible, the driver simply presses a button and the all-steel top automatically slides into the trunk where it is completely concealed. It's equally simple to raise the top. The center picture shows the top in operation. Production of the car, a Ford first, will start in January.
